

DELEGATES TO G. O. P. MEET ASSEMBLING

Dawson Conceded Nomination on First Ballot—Local Delegation Enthusiastic Over Favorite's Chances

SEN. ERNST SLATED FOR CONVENTION CHAIRMAN

By Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, June 25.—The van guard of delegates selected Saturday in mass meetings in Kentucky counties to attend the Republican state convention here tomorrow began arriving today. Conceding the nomination to Charles I. Dawson for governor on the first ballot, speculation is centered chiefly upon minor offices and upon the platform that will be written. United States Senator Richard P. Ernst, who is expected to be elected chairman is expected here today. He and Governor Morrow will present Dawson's name to the convention.

A large delegation of prominent Republicans left here last night for Lexington where they will attend the state convention tomorrow. Another delegation left at noon today and the rest will go tonight. Delegates from this district are jubilant over the result of Saturday's mass meetings throughout the state, and they are confident Charles I. Dawson will be elected on the first ballot tomorrow.

The resolutions drawn up by the resolutions committee and submitted to the Bell County mass meeting Saturday are printed below, together with the list of delegates chosen to represent Bell county at the convention:

Be it resolved by the Republicans of Bell county, in convention assembled:

First: We renew our allegiance to our party, our faith in its principles, and our belief that as a political organization it will continue to be that which it has always been, the most powerful agency in our state and nation for the preservation of our institutions and the progress, growth and development of our country.

Second: We heartily and endorse and approve the administration of President Warren G. Harding and the state administration of Governor Edwin P. Morrow.

Third: That for the purpose of casting the vote of Bell county in the state convention at Lexington, Ky., on Tuesday, June 26, 1923, the following named persons be and they are hereby selected by this Convention as the delegates of said county, to-wit:

From Middlesboro: Joe E. Bosworth, W. A. Bowman, Major E. S. Helburn, John M. Miller, Judge J. L. Manning, H. H. Hinchey, Judge J. E. Evans, Col. J. G. Fitzpatrick, H. C. Chappell, Judge T. G. UNION SUMMER CHURCH SERVICES

Baptists Will Not Join Other Four Churches in July and August Meetings

Unwilling to unite with the other ministers in union services, the Rev. William L. Powell assistant pastor of the First Baptist church withdrew his membership from the Middlesboro Ministerial Association at the meeting which took place in the Carnegie library at 10 o'clock this morning. His withdrawal and resignation as secretary were accepted by the organization.

A spirited discussion over the subject of union services preceded the secretary's withdrawal. He stated that he and his congregation were "unable consistently to unite in such services." Other ministers present urged the importance of union and cooperation in church work.

The resolutions, in part, follow:

"Be it resolved: That we do reluctantly accede to his request.
"Be it further resolved by this body: That four churches represented herein, the Presbyterian, M. E. Church South, Christian Church and First M. E. Church, do hold union services each Sunday night during the months of July and August and that the first services be held on the second Sunday night, July 8, at the M. E. Church South, and that Dr. Douglas will preach the sermon."

The schedule arranged for the union services is as follows:

July 8, M. E. Church, South conducted by Dr. R. E. Douglas; July 15, Presbyterian Church, Rev. A. B. Reeves; July 22, Christian Church, Rev. W. K. McClure; July 29, First M. E. Church, Dr. R. E. Douglas; August 5, M. E. Church, South, Rev. A. B. Reeves; August 12, Christian Church, Rev. E. F. Burdette; August 19, Presbyterian Church, Rev. W. K. McClure; August 26, schedule not arranged.

The union services will be held only on Sunday evening, the schedule not applying to the morning services. Ministers present at the meeting were: Dr. R. E. Douglas, Rev. A. B. Reeves, Rev. E. F. Burdette and Rev. W. L. Powell. Rev. W. K. McClure, chairman, being out of town, Rev. Reeves, vice chairman, presided at the meeting.

SLAYS DAUGHTER HER FRIEND, THEN COMMITTS SUICIDE

Angered by Girl's Disobedience, Louisville Man Drives to Pierie Where She Is, Shoots at Crowd in Water

THREE OTHER MEMBERS OF PARTY WOUNDED

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, June 25.—The body of Sarah Connely, sixteen, third victim of William Zimmerman's pistol Sunday, was recovered today two miles from the spot on the Ohio river where she was shot yesterday. Zimmerman killed his own daughter, Mamie, fifteen, on a short distance and killed himself. The girls were members of a Catholic organization which gave a picnic on the banks of the Ohio river below Louisville yesterday. Zimmerman leaving his daughter with the picnicers after forbidding her to attend, drove to the spot in a taxicab and began shooting at the crowd in the water. He also wounded Miss Gertrude Franconia seventeen, in the thigh and slightly wounded two young men. The Connely girl's body floated away and was found today attached to a fisherman's trot line.

Young Girl Dies M. Climax

Miss Paula Flowers, age 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Flowers, died at her home near Climax Saturday. She is survived by her parents, two brothers and four sisters. Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Interment was in the Hensley cemetery.

Said delegates are instructed to cast the vote of this county for Charles I. Dawson for the Republican nomination for Governor of Kentucky, to be voted for in November, 1923, as long as his name is before said convention, and said delegates are further instructed to use all honorable means to secure said Dawson's nomination. They are further instructed to vote as a unit, and to vote in the interest of said Dawson on all questions affecting either the temporary or permanent organization of said convention, and upon all questions affecting the interests of said Dawson in said convention.

SPLENDID TERM OF SCHOOL HERE SEEN NEXT YEAR

Supt. Bradner Leaves This Week For Work in Columbia University—Outline Work to Be Done

MANUAL TRAINING COURSES WILL BE PUT IN HERE

Supt. J. W. Bradner, having completed what has probably been Middlesboro's most successful school year and laid plans to make next year far more successful, will leave the middle of this week for Columbia University, New York City, to take advanced courses in education. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Bradner, who will stop off to spend the summer with her parents in Columbus, Ohio. They will make the trip by motor, spending a day or more with their son, George Bradner, in Cincinnati.

Mr. Bradner is enthusiastic over the prospects for school work next year. It will be the first time in years that all the children will have the opportunity for full day instruction. However, with all the rooms in all the schools full, Mr. Bradner says, the rooms will average forty-two children each, which is six more than ought to be in a room. The old building and the library will not be used, however, and the basement of the Central school will be given over to manual training. Mr. Bradner says most of the teachers have been employed and that an exceptionally good faculty is promised.

The new high school will be entirely ready by the first of next year. About four hundred and twenty-five students, comprising the junior and senior high schools will be taught here. Sixteen teachers will be employed here. All of the domestic science classes will be in the new high school building, though the manual training work will all be in the old central building. Mrs. Ray Moss will be principal of the new high school.

The central school has been rearranged and tented for the first six grades. Twenty-two teachers will be employed here. The principal will be the manual training teacher who has not yet been employed.

Miss Nimie Tipton of Bell Buckle, Tenn., will be principal of the Birmingham school. The first four grades will be taught there.

Miss Gene Armstrong of Tompkinsville, Ky., will be principal of the East End school where the first two grades will be taught.

Miss Myrtle Simpson of Owenton, Ky., will be principal of the Junction school, and the first five grades will be taught there.

The principal of the Newtown school will be Miss Lois Chapman of Lawrenceburg again. The first five grades will be taught there.

The colored school has been remodeled and the basement of it has been made into some very desirable rooms. Domestic science and manual training courses will be added here. Prof. J. L. Dameron will be principal of this school again.

LARGE INCREASE IN CITY TAXES

Assessment Now Over Six Millions—Almost Enough to Finance Schools Next Year

A considerable increase in the city tax assessment was made by the board of supervisors, according to W. S. Anderson, member of the board. The assessment now is over $6,000,000, or practically enough to finance the schools for next year. The books have been turned over to William Wallbrecht, city tax assessor, who is out of town this week. The exact figures were not available today, though Mr. Anderson stated that the revised assessment was over $6,000,000.

The original assessment as made by Mr. Wallbrecht was $5,129,185. According to a report submitted to the city council by the educational board an assessment of $6,886,250 will be needed to furnish sufficient tax funds to meet the operating expenses for next year.

ENTIRE CORBIN KIWANIS CLUB COMING TO CONVENTION HERE

CORBIN, June 25.—Officers of the local Kiwanis club have been advised that the Kentucky-Tennessee district convention will be held at Middlesboro on September 27 and 28.

Plans are being made for the entire membership of the Corbin club to attend at least one day's session of the Middlesboro meeting.

MYSTERY WOMAN

"Mrs. Francis Thompson" arrested in Chicago, was found to be "Fred Thompson" in disguise. He is said by police to have been identified as the "Woman of the leering smile," who cold-bloodedly shot down Richard G. Teemer, as Teemer, as and his wife were putting their auto in the garage in the fashionable North Side district. The prisoner first was looked as a woman. At top he is shown in feminine attire.

ROAD CONDITIONS FOR WEEK GIVEN

Tourists Still Advised to Detour Bad Roads of Southeastern Kentucky

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 25.—The status of Kentucky roads for the week ending June 24 was announced today by S. T. Madison, office engineer of the Department of State Roads and Highways, as follows:

Both the roads through Florence, Richmond, Catlettsden and Williams town and through Independence and Pikeburg are under construction. Southbound traffic from Cincinnati should go by way of Newport, Alexandria, Clayville, Grants Lick, Butler and Greenwood from the last named town go to Lexington by way of Falmouth, Cynthia and Paris.

If traffic must go by way of Florence and Williams town, detour east of west at Florence or Richmond road under construction between these points. Or if they must go by way of Independence to Falmouth, detour one mile south of Crittenden and go by way of Mt. Zion and Sherman.

MADISON COUNTY To avoid construction between Lexington and Richmond, southbound traffic should go from Lexington to Pine Grove, Breckinridge, Boone-shots Ferry, south three miles to Boone-shots station, south three miles to road house, then five miles to Richmond.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY Heavy rains have left the new grade just north of Lexington in bad condition. Contractors are trying to keep it passable. Automobiles had to be pulled through worst places last week but they can go through unassisted now and will continue to do so until another heavy rain.

LAFREY COUNTY The earth grade just south of Rockcastle River is practically completed and is in good condition for travel.

WHITLEY COUNTY Cobbin, William Sharg road waterbound macadam construction is open to traffic and in good condition to travel.

KNOX COUNTY Southbound traffic advised to go by way of Williamsburg and Jellico, to avoid construction and poor detours by way of Barboursville and Pineville to Cumberland Gap.

Grade and drain construction between Corbin and Barboursville, detour very poor for automobile traffic; several structures out by way of Woodbine and Dishman Spring.

South of Barboursville rock asphalt on concrete base under construction. Detour by way of Aricemus, Hixmrat, Flat Lick, a distance of 19 miles. This is unimproved road, very poor. Signs all points of detour. Recent rains left it almost impassable.

Bell COUNTY Macadam base is being laid on top of old gravel, of no good protection and just south of Pineville to Cumberland Gap there is no construction in the way.

HARDING SAYS PROHIBITION LAW TO BE ENFORCED

President Declares Amendment Will Not Be Appended—Issue Not Wets and Drys But Law Enforcement

INDIRECTLY HITS AT STATES WHICH SHIRK THEIR DUTY

By Associated Press.

DENVER, June 25.—President Harding served notice in an address here today that the federal government was determined to enforce the prohibition law and should the burden of enforcement continue to be increasingly thrown upon it by the states.

Moreover the executive vetoed the conviction not only that the prohibition amendment will not be repealed, but that whatever changes may be made in the Volstead Act "will represent the sincere purpose of effective enforcement, rather than moderation of the general policy."

Striking straight out at those who violate the law, the President said the issue is fast coming to be recognized as one between the "wets" and "drys," but as one of whether the laws of "the country can be and will be enforced."

"So far as the federal government is concerned," he said, "and I am very sure also, so far as concerns the very great majority of the state governments and the local governments, it will be enforced. A gratifying, indeed, it may be fairly said, an amazing progress has been made in the last few years toward better enforcement."

While Mr. Harding made no direct reference to the situation in New York state, he did say that "the spectacle" of a state nullifying its own authority, and asking the national sovereignty to take over an important part of its powers, is now. He added that "when the implications of this strange proposal are fully understood by people and parties devoted to preserving the rights of the states, the new nullificationists I venture to say, will discover that they have perpetrated what is likely to prove one of the historic blunders in political management."

The President disclosed that a good deal of testimony is reaching Washington that some states having prohibition enforcement codes and even some which successfully enforced "dry" laws before national prohibition are "disposed to abdicate their own police authority in this matter and to turn over the burden of prohibition enforcement to the federal authorities."

"What I am saying must not be construed as indicating any relaxation of the national government's purpose to do its full duty in this matter. I have no doubt that if the burden is cast, in undue proportion, upon the national authority the federal government will not only under this administration but under whatever others may come in the future, assume and discharge the full obligation. But I am pointing out that this not to be made necessary. The national policy ought to be supported by the public opinion and the administrative machinery of the whole country. For myself, I am confident that we are passing now through the most difficult stage of this matter, and that as time passes there will be a more and more willing acceptance by authorities everywhere of the unalterable obligation of law enforcement. The country and the nation will not permit the law of the land to be made a byword and a mere willing acceptance by authorities everywhere of the unalterable obligation of law enforcement. The country and the nation will not permit the law of the land to be made a byword and a mere willing acceptance by authorities everywhere of the unalterable obligation of law enforcement."

"It is a curious illustration of close thinking, that some people have proposed, as a means to protecting the fullest rights of the states, that the states should abandon their part in enforcing the prohibitory policy. That means simply an invitation to the federal government to exercise powers which should be exercised by the states. Instead of being an assertion of state rights it is an abandonment of them. It is an abdication; it amounts to a confession by the state that it doesn't choose to govern itself but prefers to turn the task, or a considerable part of it, over to the federal authority. There could be no more complete negation of state rights."

FAMOUS JOURNALIST KILLED IN AUTO

Three Prominent Men Victims When Car Goes Over Canyon Near Denver

By Associated Press.

DENVER, June 25.—Thomas F. Dawson, Colorado State Historical and nationally known newspaper man, died at the hospital here today, third victim of an automobile accident in Bear creek canyon yesterday. Others were Sumner Cuthis, representative of the Republican National Committee, and Tommie French, statistician for the Great Western Sugar company, who was driving the car. The automobile in which they were riding was part of a caravan of visiting newspaper correspondents with President Harding's special train. The machine went over a cliff when brakes refused to work.

Dawson, 72, was born near Louisville and worked with Henry Watterson on the Courier-Journal.

NO EXPLANATION FOR DELAY ON EAST END STREETS

Though several letters have been written to the State Highway Commission inquiring the cause of the delay in returning the specifications for the construction work on East Cumberland avenue, no reply has been received according to Mayor J. H. Keeney. The last communication was mailed last week and a reply is expected today.

Mayor Keeney seems very anxious for the work to begin in East End and is doing all that he can to expedite its beginning.

Girls are married at the age of four, she explained, and are taken by their husbands at twelve. Her address was well received by the congregation.

I. C. C. DECLARES ENOUGH COAL MINES IN U. S.

Refuses Railway Permission to Build Line to Where New West Virginia Mines Being Opened

SAY FEWER MINES WILL MAKE PRODUCTION BETTER

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Making a new departure in the field of railway regulation the Interstate Commerce Commission held today there were already enough coal mines in the country and solely on that ground refused to permit the Virginia railway to build on a mile branch in West Virginia to serve mines being opened by the Pocahontas fuel company. In denying the request the commission held fewer mines would in reality produce more coal because railroad facilities and rolling stock could be better concentrated. The commission said there were "more mines in the country now than was consistent with efficiency of carriers' equipment and their agreement of car supply."

KU KLUX MEET AT EAST END PARK YESTERDAY

Klan Agitator Speaks Two Hours, Denouncing Local Press, Judge Forrester and Law Enforcement Here

OVER ONE HUNDRED MORE PETITION FOR MEMBERSHIP

Charging that laxity of law enforcement and corruption in politics are two of the many evils existing in Middlesboro, a Ku Klux Klan speaker addressed a crowd estimated at 600 persons at the East End ball park yesterday afternoon. A number of men, perhaps, 150 petitioned for membership at the close of the speech which lasted nearly two hours.

About seventy-five women were in the audience. The men present were Merchants, ministers, miners, professional men and were, in general, a fair representation of the citizenship of Middlesboro.

The speaker said Middlesboro is the first town in which the use of a church for an address on "Americanism" had been denied him. The meeting was opened by prayer by the speaker after which "America" was sung by the members of the audience.

The address was delivered in remarkably strong language. Two women, apparently offended by the speaker's choice of words, left during the meeting.

He denounced the "foreign element" the press which he claimed was controlled largely by foreigners and Catholics and touched on local newspapers, saying that they were "fighting the Klan without knowing anything about it."

He scored Judge J. G. Forrester for his recent comments on activities of men who cover their outrages against law and order with a mask. "The judge is an intelligent and educated jurist but he has decided the case against the Klan without hearing their side of it," he declared.

In speaking of local conditions he declared that Greeks were using American women for immoral purposes, and that city authorities know of existing conditions but fail to enforce the law.

He said that the Klan did not want any bootleggers and roughnecks in its membership, that if he wanted those men he could get plenty of them here in Middlesboro. "He denied that tar and feathers, and the lash were ever used by the organization."

His attack on the "foreign element" in the United States was delivered with great force and with an apparent knowledge of the histories of all foreign peoples. He said that the ancient Greeks were an intelligent and educated people but that the race had become degenerated through intermarriage with inferior races, resulting in a citizenry utterly lacking in all desirable traits.

The Jews, he claimed, had been responsible for many wars, that they furnished the money by which they were carried on. They have no country of their own, he said, and they are excluded from other countries when they begin to cause trouble.

"We hear of Irish-Americans, German-Americans, etc.," he said, "There ain't no such animal. A man is either an American or he is a foreigner."

Ministers of the gospel were not slighted in the verbal barrage. He described them as "spineless" and afraid to come out and tell the truth. They will preach the funeral of a bootlegger or politician and attribute all kinds of virtues to him, he said. He, himself had been a Baptist minister for fourteen years, he declared.

In regard to the secrecy with which the work of the Klan is conducted he said that all big movements must be done in secret, that in times of war the opposing sides do their work in secret so that the attack will be more effective.

A small crowd was present at the beginning of the speech, but many persons, attracted by the loud voice of the speaker joined the crowd. The grand stand was filled and many persons remained in their cars during the meeting. It was a constantly changing crowd, many staying only a few minutes. The speaker's name was announced but no one seems to have understood it.

CHARLES L. DAWSON FOR GOVERNOR

The results of Saturday's Republican mass meetings were indeed satisfying to southeastern Kentucky Republicans to whom there has never been but one candidate for governor, and that candidate, Charles L. Dawson. His victory was so overwhelming that even the Courier-Journal concedes his nomination tomorrow on the first ballot as certain.

Mr. Dawson is a mountain man but he is a Kentucky man as well as the returns show. The eleventh district was solid for him, as was to be expected, but so were the sixth and first, while practically every other district in the state gave him a big majority. The only explanation is the one Bell county has given all of the time, that he is the only logical candidate for the office. The Seney forces were able to round up the Louisville vote on the strength of Dawson's being a mountain man, but not even this formidable three hundred and forty-one from the Kentucky metropolis has much weight against the balance of the state.

Mr. Dawson has gained the confidence of the rank and file of Kentuckians by his splendid work as attorney-general, work that has brought him unstinted praise from both Republicans and Democrats. He long ago gained the confidence of Bell county and the Eleventh District by his work here, as was evinced by their almost unanimous endorsement of him Saturday.

We are satisfied with the returns of Saturday's meetings. We are confident of the result of the convention in Lexington tomorrow when the delegates will go through the form of nominating the Republican candidate for governor. More than that, we feel sure that when the time comes for the election in November when Kentucky voters will go to the polls to select a man for governor during the next term, their choice will be this man who has so well merited further confidence by his exemplary public service, to carry on the splendid program that the Republican party has already inaugurated in Kentucky.

CHINESE CIVILIZATION

The Chinese civilization was organized for peace.

The leading class is an intellectual one, but it is not a caste. In China, one is not a mandarin by birth, but by education. Mandarins are drawn by education and by examination, from all the classes of the community.

The traditional Chinese social system recognized four main classes: below the priest-emperor; the literary consisting of the teachers, writers and clerical; the cultivators of land; the artisans and the mercantile class.

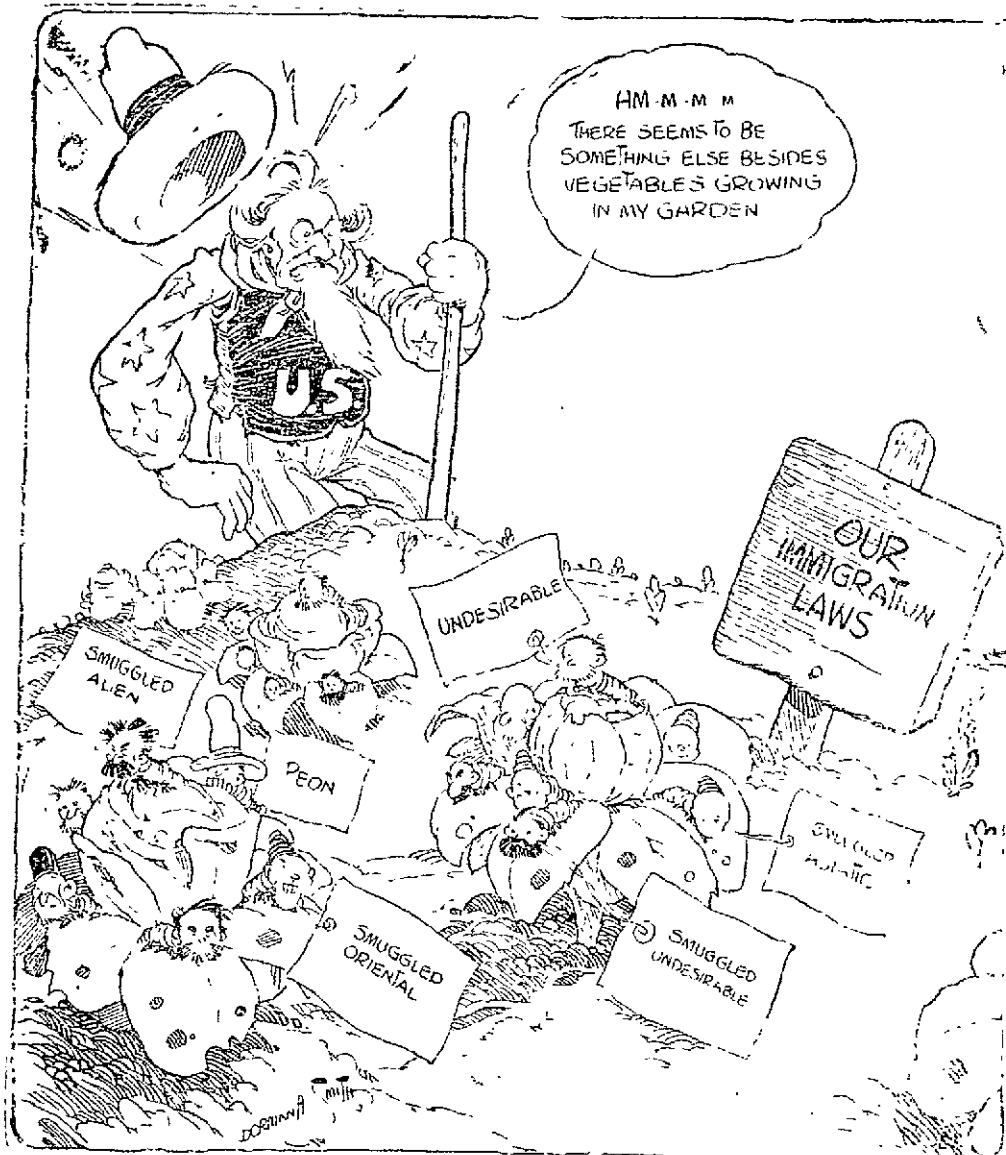

Could any nation improve greatly upon this social system?

Well, few seem to try to even approach it. On the contrary, the so-called civilized nations are trying to feast on the harmless and peaceful China like a pack of wolves devouring a lamb.

Instead of letting China continue to have government and a peaceful society these jackal nations are seeking approach from all sides, and are disturbing the Chinese by means of propaganda from within.

The result is that China, for thousands of years a nation of unparalleled social structure, is rapidly becoming the Mexico of the Orient.

Time for the Exterminator

And yet, it has been these same nations from which China has welcomed Christian missionaries. If recent happenings don't turn all China back to her ancient worship, they certainly will not win her to the cross of the Christians.

Puzzling Play's
By Billy Evans

THE PLAY

In a game of baseball with a runner on first base, and the ball is hit to the infield, the runner on first forced to run or has he the option of standing on the bag?

If the runner elected to remain on the bag and the ball was hit to the second baseman, who instead of making the play to second as is customary for a double play, threw the ball to first, retiring the batter, would the touching of the runner with the ball while he was standing on that base, retire the original occupant of the base?

Must the runner on first attempt to advance on any hit to the infield, even if the play is first made on the batter at first base?

THE INTERPRETATION

A runner on first can always do as he pleases on a batted ball. He has a perfect right to remain on first base if he so desires. But what would be the advantage in remaining on that base?

If it is baseball for him to try to advance, since it is the desire of the batsman to reach first. Not to run would be considered a "hunched" play. Failure to run offers greater possibility for a double play and kills entirely his chances of reaching second or perhaps even further if the play is not perfectly executed.

If a play is first made on the batsman retiring that player, then the runner on first is not forced to advance to make room for the batsman. The batsman's retirement removes the force. The original occupant then retains the right to first base.

Touching him while standing on that base, after the batsman has been put out at first would not retire him, as he retained the right to be base and was

Kinks-o' the Links
BY "PRO"

There is a question constantly arising on the putting green, which seems to be complicated with various definitions and rulings. Two players are about to putt, one is lying nearer the cup than the other and in a direct line, one player says "The ball must be lifted to allow the other player to hole out." The other player says the ball must remain where it is, and if the one who is further from the hole having the honor to putt first should strike the ball between his ball and the cup he is penalized a stroke. What is the correct ruling for this play?

The above situation depends fully on whether it is medal or match play. In medal play before putting you may ask the player to lift or play, as he may choose, when the ball is nearer to the hole, or he may lift or play without being asked. However in medal play if your ball strikes that of your opponent, you are penalized one stroke. Also his ball if struck, must be replaced.

In match play if your ball strikes that of your opponent you do not incur a penalty and he may replace his ball or not as he chooses, before another stroke is played.

Is it correct to have the player watch his ball in the event that your putt will strike his ball, with the idea of having him push his ball to one side for fear it will be struck?

It is not correct to save him watch his ball to eliminate the danger of your ball striking his because, if during medal play, he should move his ball while yours is in motion, he is penalized one stroke.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PERSCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

I'm inclosing some letters to me from Leslie. They are almost too sacred for even the eyes of my best friend, only that I must scourge myself for my sins. I would not send them to you.

I wonder, Jack, just what a man does, what his thoughts are under these circumstances?

What would you do, Jack? Oh how foolish of me to ask you! Of course you do not know what you would do. No one does unless he is put in the same position.

What thoughtful emissary of Fate told Leslie to write that to me? God! It is the last straw that pushes me down into a purgatory of my own building.

You must act after this, Syd. I could never confess to her, never tell her of Paula.

How sweetly she allays my fears, my jealousy of her people, and throws herself completely upon my love and care! Did ever a married sweetheart write such dear love letters?

Syd, if women only knew what scoundrels we were they would shrink from us in contempt instead of allowing us to hold them in our arms.

I think I shall go mad if you do not come soon, Syd. To tell you the truth, I do not dare go near Paula unless you are with me.

The longer I live, the surer I become of the fact that we must pay not only for our sins but for our mistakes. I think I have said that to you before, Syd, but it looks to me as though life had asked perfection of every mortal and punished or cast aside as totally unfit those who fall short of this by either mistaken notions or voluntary sinning.

Syd, I cannot endure it, I haven't even answered these wonderful letters from Leslie of which I have sent you a copy. I am carrying the originals around with me, and I read them over and over, alternately consumed first by the burning torture of her faith in me and then by the knowledge of how unworthy I am of that faith. She is the dearest woman in all the world. Help me to keep her happy by getting me out of this mess.

Had another note from Paula today. She tells me that the doctor says she must go away immediately if she would cure incipient tuberculosis. Syd, I know what she wants. She wants to get away some place where she will not see either Leslie or me.

The poor girl hasn't a cent to bless herself with and she wants the money to go. Now I ask you how am I going to raise this money? I'm in a devil of a hole from which I seem to be trying to pull myself out by my bootstraps. Somehow I fear that it is not tuberculosis that ails Paula.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem Pagan Moments

By Berton Braley

We tend to our daily duty,
We quietly plod along
With scarcely an eye for beauty
And hardly a thought for song:
To the work of the world we're turning
According to scheme and plan,
But now and again we're yearning
To follow the Pipes o' Pen.

We toil with our humdrum neighbor
In clamor and grit and grime,
For amusements is wrought by labor
Which builds us our dreams in time;

But let us not be so rooted
To toll that's the lot of man,
That we cannot at times, light-footed,
Perform to the Pipes o' Pen.

Though the bonds of our job enmesh us
As we seek our various goals,
At seasons we must refresh us
With laughter that helps our souls;

We'll win to fulfillment better,
And live as a happier clan,
And live as a happier clan,
If we shatter, at times, each fetter,
And follow the Pipes o' Pan!

Thousands of young doctors are completing their study of anatomy at the bathing beaches.

A neighbor has gotten three gallons of beans and six chickens out of only one row.

St. Louis painter told four stories and walked away, but don't try it if you have corns.

Camping gets one out in the open.

Will Gardner of Louisville is the guest of the E. S. Helburn family. C. S. Mays as fuel agent of the Southern Railway, was here last week. Judge J. E. Evans, Roy Mays and C. G. Covey motored to Knoxville last week. Judge Evans went on from there for several days' stay in Atlanta. Bill Farley of Pineville was here yesterday.

Thurston Edmonds returned last night from Woodbury Forest military academy where he had been in school the past year and from which he was graduated last week.

Ed Patterson and family left for Cincinnati Saturday night for a week's visit with relatives.

Bayard Yaden enjoyed a picnic with Knoxville relatives at Days Mill, Tenn. yesterday. Others in the party were: Mrs. J. D. Yaden, Miss Lucie Yaden, Hugh Myers, J. L. Yaden and little Alma and Flossie Mae Yaden.

Mrs. C. H. Baker who has been the guest here of her son, R. W. Baker, the past few months, will leave in the morning for a visit at Lake Umbagog, N. C.

George Callison arrived home yesterday morning from a two weeks' visit in New York and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lawson have returned from their vacation. They motored to Knoxville and visited T. E. Paschal and then motored to Jefferson City where they visited the family of Walter Paschal, S. W. Paschal, Mrs. Florence Workman, and returned home last Sunday.

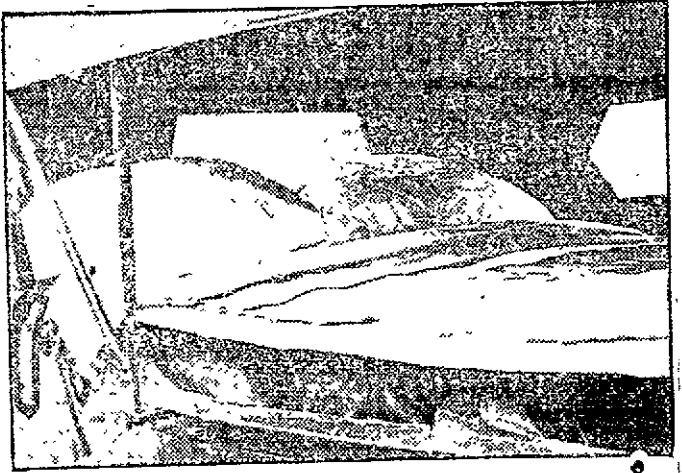

Mrs. Bruce Nelson and little son returned Saturday night to their home in Montgomery, W. Va., after several weeks visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Hies.

Mrs. A. P. Liebig has left for a two months' visit in Livingstone, Mont., and Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Smyth spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Tim Thomas at their country home six miles below Arthur, Tenn.

Miss Alice Parsons, who has been Sept. J. W. Braden's efficient secretary during the past year, left Saturday for Bowling Green.

GET OUT IN OPEN AS MOTOR-CAMPER

THIRD ARTICLE

The night's rest in the keynote of success or failure in motor camping if it is poor then the tourist goes home disgusted or takes to the hotels. If it is refreshing then the rest of the game is pretty sure to be delightful. There is a tendency among the newcomers to the sport to take along any old kind of shake-down. This is wrong. There is no need to rough it.

There are so many kinds of beds for camping that it would take a volume to describe them. One of the simplest affairs is the folding army cot, quite satisfactory if it is made up correctly and provision taken for keeping cold from coming up through. The various steel frame beds with springs which set up on the running board of the car are comfortable.

Air Mattress Popular

One very comfy type of bed is the air mattress, made of rubber and enclosed in a cloth envelope. This is blown up to the desired pressure at night and carried deflated in a small roll while on the road. It makes an admirable thing to rest upon when care is taken to have adequate warmth between the mattress and the sleeper.

One of the newest ideas is the bed which slings inside the car, usually made with a wood frame with canvas stretched upon it. For two adults this makes a fine bed, and of course as weather-proof as the car itself permits. It appeals to many owing to the fact that it is high above the ground.

The sleeping bag, of many types while primarily designed for sleeping on the ground, can be used successfully on a cot or other bed. The sleeper cannot get uncovered in the night; it has that advantage. It has another good point, too in its remarkable warmth.

As To Covers

Mattresses for camping are much thinner than the house type generally about two inches thick and filled with cotton or silk floss. A mattress must be used with the spring type bed and is also a welcome addition to a cot or sleeping bag. The trailers usually come equipped with both springs and mattresses.

The big point in the comfort of any bed used in the outdoors is the covering. Warm woolen blankets are a necessity and plenty of them. While the summer days are hot the night outside can be uncomfortably cold owing to fog and dampness. If the sleeper is cold no matter how wonderful his bed may be, he will suffer agony and his trip be spoiled.

Summer Foods for Vacationist Suggested by Cooking Expert

This is meant especially for those housewives who live out in the country or suburbs and are beginning to take in summer boarders.

But the information contained here is just as beneficial to the said summer boarder and all others who care to keep cool and refreshing during the hot spell.

Once a day at least a salad should be served. For luncheon or supper it may be made of the vegetables left from dinner the day before. When cooking beans or peas, it is well to take out a few also one or two potatoes, before these have had any butter or sauce added and put them away in a cold place to use for salads.

These vegetables with a little lettuce, or watercress make what hotels and restaurants call "combination salad." Dress these salads with a French dressing of oil, vinegar, salt, paprika, mustard and always a little onion.

Corn oil is an excellent oil to use instead of olive oil which is much more expensive. Be sure to get the corn oil which has not been standing too long a time on the grocer's shelf and then keep it in a cool place that it may not grow rancid.

It is not at all necessary to serve a cooked dressing. Many persons do not care for mayonnaise. Sometimes cream sauces and a good use for it is in a cooked salad dressing.

Desserts made of milk as boiled custard rice cooked in milk and bread puddings are all enjoyed. If the custard bread in the pudding is not too self-evident!

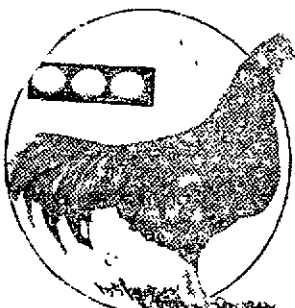

A custard made with the yolks of three eggs to a pint of milk, and cooked carefully so that when cold it is like satin, served in glasses is as good a dessert as one could wish and one which the children may have without question. On top of the glass may be served a spoonful of whipped cream, sweetened and flavored or a bit of meringue made with the whites of the eggs.

The Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its annual picnic at Fern Lake Friday, June 26. All who wish to go are requested to meet at the church at 10 o'clock Friday morning and go in a body to the lake.

Middle Name Is "Freak"

MADISON, Wis., June 25.—Nope! There's nothing wrong with this picture, Pete's rooster and all that. Lake-wise he's the champ layer.

Residing in royal pen at the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station here in cockiest manner he proclaims to the whole cock-eyed world that the quality of his eggs is beyond compare.

Pete is by no means the first egg-laying rooster on record.

History recounts similar creatures dating back to the Middle Age which aroused the suspicions of the simple folk of the countryside.

Science investigating the phenomenon attributes the monstrosity to a psychological change in Pete's hen nature during the time of molt which caused him to take on rooster plumage and adopt a crowing war cry instead of his former modest cackle.

Ain't nature grand? You said it.

URGE MOTORISTS CLEAN UP TRASH

Leagues Being Organized For Care And Preservation Woods and Countryside

NEW YORK June 25.—Organization of local chapters of the Motorist League for Countryside Preservation throughout the United States is progressing rapidly. Automobile owners and civic clubs generally having indorsed enthusiastically the League's creed that motorists owe to themselves, their fellowmen and the nation the care and preservation of the woods the hills and the countryside.

Several different methods are being pursued by the different communities in effecting local organizations. One plan in common use, is the affiliating of an existing local organization with the motorist's League. This includes active Automobile clubs, Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and similar organizations which would naturally embrace a movement of this character. All that is necessary in cases of this sort is that officers of the local club prepare a petition to the national organization, sign the League's cards and forward the papers to the National Headquarters at 119 West 40th Street New York.

A certificate of charter is then issued by the National League and the officer of the local chapter are given membership cards signed by the national secretary, Earle H. McHugh.

The certificate provides that the parent League can not call upon the local chapter now or at any future time for funds and that local chapters must finance themselves. However there is little financial outlay involved as the chief function of the League and its local chapters is to interest motorists in the care and preservation of roadsides, camp sites and picnic grounds. The sole and entire object of the League is to get motorists to "Clean up as they go"; never to leave a stopping place the worse for their having spent a few minutes or a night there.

Efforts are being made also to get garage owners and associations or municipalities controlling camp sites to install receptacles for the motor way-farers' refuse. Stencils showing the League's name and carrying the slogan "clean up as you go" may be obtained through the national organization.

Another simple method of forming a local chapter of the League is accomplished a group of interested citizens signing a petition, copies of which will be sent by the League on application, and forwarding it to national headquarters. When this method is adopted it is necessary that all who attend and wish to participate sign the League's pledge card and send their names to national headquarters for enrollment.

No dues are to be paid the parent organization in any event. A model set of by laws for local chapters has been prepared by National Secretary McHugh and will be forwarded on request.

Dare Be What You Are.

To dare to be the thing you are.
Not something else to seem.
Your journey near, your journey far,
And dark, or all aglow
To walk your way with head erect,
Whatever it may be,
Will bring you more of men's respect,
Than cheap chicanery.

To wear a gloss, a thin veneer,
Your inner self to hide.
Some other person to appear,
May please your petty pride,
May satisfy you for a day.
A little while deceive
But men shall tear the mask away
And doubt who now believe.

If you are poor, to dare be poor
Is truly to be rich:
To live if need be, on the moor,
If fated, walk the ditch.
Thun velvet garments gay,
For which you cannot pay.

If rich or poor, if small or great,
If age is yours, or youth,
Whatever fortune, ever fate,
Your greatest charm is truth:
And they more quickly find the dream,
The goal, however far,
Who do not something try to seem
But seem the thing they are!

Drama Within Drama; Jane Cowl Triumphs Over Fears in Test Role

NEW YORK, June 25.—Last week marked the close of Jane Cowl's six-months run in "Romeo and Juliet." And here for the first time is told the story of a play within a play, a drama beyond the stage that concerned Miss Cowl. It was a secret carefully guarded but Jane Cowl had made up her mind that it she failed as Juliet she would never set foot on the stage again!

Doubtless the strain of preparation for this role the final test and exhibition of every actress had something to do with mental attitude at the time. But Miss Cowl confesses to a fear complex that has all but made a career in the theater impossible for her.

To play Juliet had been the dream of a lifetime, but it took years for her to "screw her courage to the sticking point." Then when all was in readiness came the intruding doubts and fears, not perhaps as to how she would acquit herself but how she would be received. It was then that Jane Cowl resolved that as far as her professional career was concerned it was "do or die."

What followed is now part of theatrical history. Her "Juliet" has been acclaimed the length and breadth of the land, by dramatic critic by writers in books and magazines which invariably do not treat of the theater by visiting artists from England, Russia, France and Germany.

Juliet is the test role of great acting for women, just as Hamlet is for men. And as Juliet, Jane Cowl has enjoyed the longest consecutive run that has ever been recorded of any Shakespearean role in the history of drama in this or any country.

Miss Cowl will make a brief tour to the Pacific coast in "Romeo and Juliet."

Next season she will be seen as Cleopatra on the New York stage. She will also do one of the Shakespeare comedies and in the spring will go to London. In the meantime she will begin the building of a classical repertory.

That opening night in "Romeo and Juliet" might have been a Waterloo of all her hopes, but an audience and many more after it acclaimed her with a silence almost sacred, with tears and at the end with wild tumult that bespoke the depths to which it had been stirred.

And Jane Cowl was spurred on to renewed effort, to a great career.

general, threatened to seize the city. Maybe Li meant to set up his government somewhere else, but Feng's followers caught him at Tientsin and made him resign.

Where Will It Stop?

BULGARIA can satisfy her ambitions only at Yugoslavia's Roumania's and Greece's expense. Their troops are ready to resist Hungary probably will take a hand, if fighting starts. Even farther away Czechoslovakia is uneasy.

If these countries took the war trail where would it stop? In Europe, these times, nobody can tell. That's why there's so much anxiety over what, in

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

EVERY day it becomes plainer that to the average voter prohibition will be the main issue of the 1924 political campaign.

The politicians would like to trade the President Harding to the Republicans on record as dyes, and there's small chance that anybody can get the Democratic presidential nomination who isn't somewhat sympathetic at least, toward the wets.

The Eighteenth Amendment's repeal won't be asked. The demand will be for what the wets call reasonable interpretation of:

What's an intoxicating drink?

Prohibition at Sea

The administration admits it's "in the air" over the question of letting foreign ships bring liquor into America, an waters for their own use under seal while here.

Our law says they mustn't. Several countries have laws compelling their ships to serve laws compelling their ships to serve wine to their crews. They must break their laws to obey ours. The administration says they must obey ours anyway. This causes such a smart that they're told on the "q. t." they won't be bothered if they're very careful.

The administration realizes this position's dangers so keenly that Congress is to be asked to change the law. The trouble is, Congress surely won't. Most dyes won't vote for a change. Neither will the wets for one like this. They want wine and beer in the United States. They don't care about foreign ships. They're glad the administration itself is a small disturbance.

For awhile the powers hopen Stambulsky would stage a "come back." They know now he won't. He's been killed.

Worried Over Bulgaria

EUROPE'S badly worried over what may follow the military overthrow of the "farm bloc" cabinet under Premier Stambulsky in Bulgaria.

Bulgaria took the losing side in the World War. Stambulsky came into power. He submitted to the allies terms. These were severe. Bulgaria lost much. Yet the allies promised her a few advantages, to console her a little. Their promises weren't kept. All Bulgaria reaped was a net loss.

Bulgaria's neighbor, Turkey, didn't submit. She defied the allies and fought England's protégé, Greece. Instead of being weakened, as Bulgaria was by submitting, Turkey strengthened herself immensely.

What Europe fears is that King Boris and his new premier, Prof. Zankov, are fighting on following Turkey's example now, and trying to take forcibly what Bulgaria wants.

Women sleep more lightly and require less sleep than men, according to a French scientist.

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself.

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart.

"This nervous condition was worse than pain.

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it.

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well.

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles.

WANTS CARS FOR LAME DRIVERS

One of the Profests Lack of Accommodations for Disabled Motorists

In the face of a nation-wide movement of safety organizations against automobile driving by persons physically incapable a member of the "wheel-chair brigade" comes out to protest his case. He is Arthur M. Van Rensselaer of New York. His complaint is that as much should be done for the cripple as for as transportation is concerned, as is being done for him to improve his physical condition. On the contrary he maintains, the cripple in some states is actually being barred from driving an automobile, even though he can substitute appliances where his legs or arms are useless. During all the 25 years of automobile development, says Van Rensselaer, cars have been designed for the use of the able-bodied. "What has been done for the crippled he asks. "In many instances the cripple's power of locomotion is so limited that he is unable to make use of the ordinary means of transportation", he adds. "In looking about to see what kind of a vehicle has been developed for his needs he finds that he must be contented with a hand-propelled chair. "Some of the more enterprising cripples have had automobiles made over in such a manner that they can be operated by hand control. Then they run into a snag.

"There are states, and Maryland is one for example, that refuse to grant a license to any one who can't use both legs and both arms. That ruling denies the cripple the right to make use of the public highways, for how many are in a position to afford a car and pay for a chauffeur?"

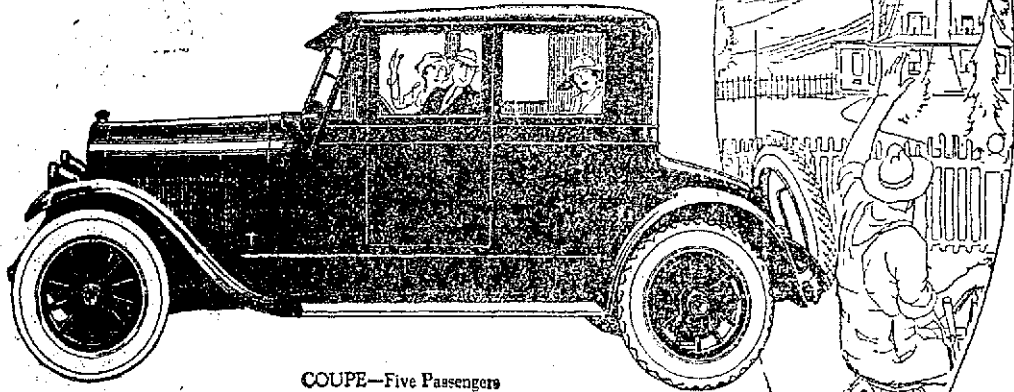

Van Rensselaer has invented a motorized wheelchair for the use of cripples.

It is entirely hand-controlled, is operated by a gasoline engine, has an electric starter and can maintain a speed of 25 miles an hour.

"For the first time," he says, "cripples have an opportunity to motorize themselves. But the laws of some states forbid them to drive on the highways. Other states tax them heavily."

"The time has come," he concludes, "when instead of hampering the cripple in his efforts to motorize himself and thus get to shop and office, the states ought to do everything to encourage the disabled in his efforts."

LINCOLN MOTOR CARS

COUPE—Five Passengers

Of importance to every purchaser of a quality car is the fact that there is a Lincoln representative in nearly every city and town in the country.

This assures immediate, interested, and capable attention to any possible requirement for service and parts, an element in satisfaction, the importance of which cannot be overestimated.

AIR BULB ACCELERATOR

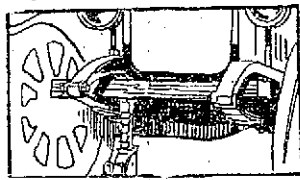

Instead of the metal pedal accelerators which are being put out for a popular small car, a form of air cushion pedal has been invented. It is said to take up shock, especially while going over bumps and thus produce more even supply of fuel. When the bulb pedal is pressed, an air cushion beneath the steering column expands and moves the rod extending to the carburetor. When the foot is taken off the bulb pedal, the air cushion contracts and the rod is drawn back.

LUBRICATING SPRINGS

An easy way to lubricate the spring leaves with graphite oil is to jack up the chassis as shown in the sketch, so that the weight of the car is taken from the springs. The leaves can be separated easily and oiled.

ALWAYS ON TIME

Motorists who must "ride by their watch," may find a helpful suggestion in this sketch. It is of a watch in a case especially built for driving wheels by a Sioux City, Ia., watch firm. However, a handy man could just as well fashion his own leather case like the one sketched.

TAKE THESE ALONG ON TOURING TRIP

Before going out on a tour of any considerable distance be sure you have these extras with you:

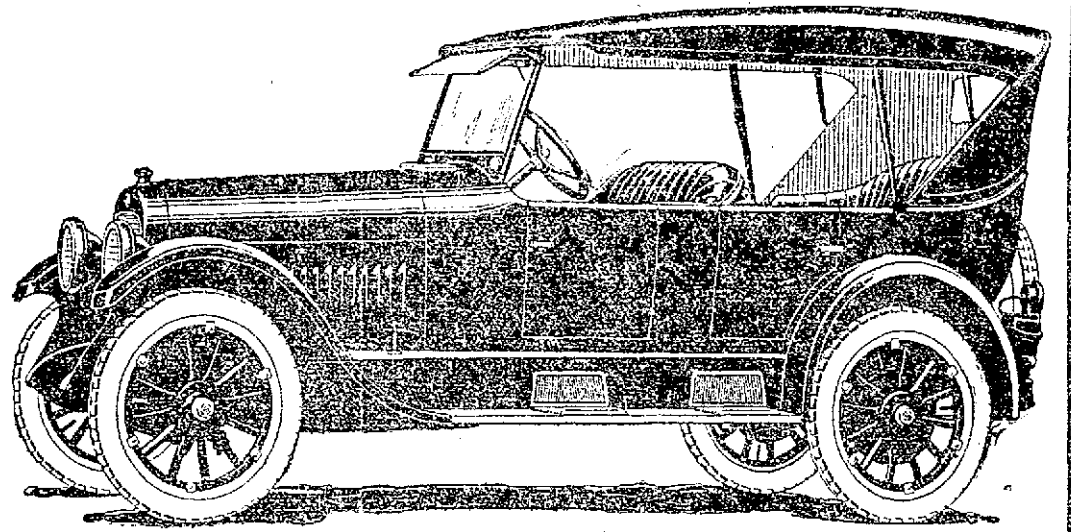

- Spare inner tube with a box of valve insides.
- Two extra spare spark plugs.
- Two extra bulbs.
- Pound of cup grease.
- Can of hand soap.
- Can of light kerosene oil.
- Wiping cloths.
- Extra fan belt.
- Oil and grease gun.
- Extension luggage carrier.
- Roll of tire tape.
- Blue Book.

Besides, if baby is going along, a small hammock made especially for automobiles will relieve mother from holding him all the way.

Safety Factor

"At least five factors must be considered in the bringing about of safer highway," says Edward S. Jordan, special representative in traffic and safety for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. He lists them as:

1. Safety education in schools as well as for adult motorists and pedestrians.
2. Jail for reckless driver.
3. Adequate playgrounds including streets to be set off excluding for play.
4. Better traffic regulation especially uniform laws and prevention of careless driving.
5. City planning to avoid congestion and provide parking space.

SPECIAL SIX TOURING

One and One-Half Billion Miles of Satisfaction

Studebaker Special Six owners have driven their cars a total of more than one and one-half billion miles!

This enormous mileage has been piled up in every day service over every conceivable kind of road and under every condition of weather throughout the world.

And no Special-Six has ever worn out. So far as we know there isn't a single dissatisfied owner.

These one and one-half billion miles of satisfactory service prove positively the outstanding merit of the Special-Six.

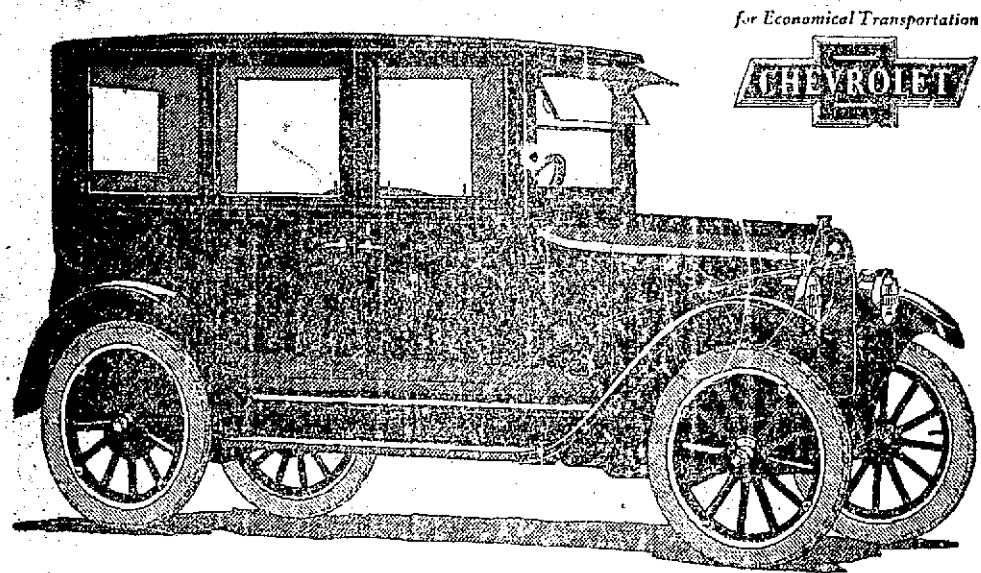

It is the strongest recommendation possible for dependable performance, economical maintenance and long life. It is striking evidence of the high quality that is responsible for Studebaker Special-Six leadership in fine car sales.

To call a car "Special" doesn't make it special unless there is special merit to back up the name.

The Studebaker Special-Six is special not only in name but in performance. One and one-half billion miles to its credit are proof positive that it lives up to its name.

The name Studebaker is a surance of satisfaction.
